DentalVets may take photographs during the course and these could be used in future on our website and other media for course promotion. Should you not wish your photograph to be used, please let the course organiser know at the time.

Course arrangements

Courses will involve exposure to and contact with cadaver specimens or skulls. The cadavers used in this course are fresh-frozen material. These specimens are being utilised for purposes of teaching and learning on our designated veterinary dentistry courses.

The participant acknowledges that he or she is familiar with and understands the potential risks involved in working with cadavers and agrees to observe all customary safety procedures, including the following:

1. All participants will, at all times, wear protective gloves, goggles and other appropriate protective clothing whilst handling cadavers
2. Use of extreme caution when using sharp instruments to avoid injuring any wet lab attendees or other personnel
3. Handle all tissues with care to avoid contact with skin or mucous membranes of wet lab attendees and other personnel
4. In partial consideration for attendance at this course, the participant releases DentalVets and IVC, sponsors and supporters of this course and their respective employees and representatives from any liability for any injury, disease, or other damage that may occur as a result of participation in this course.
